NEC Displays NP01Wi2 Interactive Solution with eBeam Software for U Series/M Series Short Throw Projectors

No Image Available

The NP01Wi2 in combination with a short throw or ultra-short throw projector from the NEC U- or M Short-Throw Series and a wall mount transforms any existing flat surface (e.g. whiteboard) into an interactive workspace. The NP01Wi2 interactive solution includes a fully featured interactive eBeam software for corporate and for education use. The eBeam online meeting sharing function for example facilitates distance learning and supports presentations for meetings via Internet. It is quick and easy to install and provides you with a very flexible premium interactive experience. The NEC interactive solution represents the best future proofed investment in a proven teaching and presentation resource. Different elements combine to create a fully featured interactive classroom or meeting room tool whilst reducing the total cost of ownership. Existing NEC U- or M- Series projection equipment can be utilised whilst maintaining an upgrade path for future advances in projection technology without having to replace the interactive receiver. With projector and interactive elements separate, service costs are minimised in case of projector or interactive module breakdown. No special surface is required to project on to.
